

What you can do if you are treated unfairly

In NSW there is a law that says people must be fair to you —

when you go for a job

at your work

at your school, college or university in shops, banks, hospitals, hotels, clubs, coffee shops and offices

when you rent a house, flat or room

This law is called the Anti-Discrimination Act.

This law says people must not treat you unfairly, just because — you have a learning difficulty

you have a disability

you are black or from a different country

you are going to have a baby

you are breastfeeding your baby

you work and look after a family member you are old or young

you are a man or boy

you are a woman or a girl

you are single or married or defacto

you are gay or lesbian

you are transgender (you are a man who has become a woman, or a woman who has become a man)

you have HIV or AIDS

If people treat you unfairly, complain to the ADB. ADB stands for Anti-Discrimination Board.

The ADB can help you get a fair go.

Ring or visit the ADB at:

Sydney

Level 7, 10 Valentine Avenue
Parramatta, NSW 2150
Phone (02) 9268 5555
Fax (02) 9268 5500

Wollongong

84 Crown Street
Wollongong NSW 2500
Phone (02) 4267 6200
Fax (02) 4267 6261
TTY (02) 4267 6267

Newcastle

Level 3, 97 Scott Street
Newcastle NSW 2300
Phone (02) 4903 5300
Fax (02) 4929 7952
TTY (02) 4903 5389

Enquiries (02) 9268 5544

Email: adbcontact@justice.nsw.gov.au

Complaints (02) 9268 5544

Email: complaintsadb@justice.nsw.gov.au

Toll free number 1800 670 812

(if you are calling from outside Sydney)

Website

www.antidiscrimination.justice.nsw.gov.au

Access details

All our offices are wheelchair accessible.
If you use a wheelchair, we can arrange parking for you at our offices — phone us before you come to organise this.